Odds and Ends of Gossip.

UNDER GREEN BOUGHS.

I heard along the orchard,
All in the bright spring weather,
The pink and pretty people
Whispering close together:

"We're drawing royal juices
From the happy earth's completeness,
From the perfumed showers of summer
And the spicy south wind's sweetness.

"We're wizards of the moonlight
Weaving charms with dewy plunder;
And we're chemists of the sunshine
Changing form and working wonder.

"When all the leaves have reddened
With streaks and peaks and dapples,
Though folks may think us blossoms,
They'll find we're really apples!"

—Harriet Prescott Spofford.

WARM FIGHT—There is a warm fight for the Republican nomination for county Magistrate in the Mooresville-Brush Grove district and so bitter is the fight that some of the party managers are fearful that the feeling engendered may cause disaffection to the extent of endangering the success of the Republican county ticket in the November election. At best the Republican candidates of the county are considered to have only a fighting chance and anything that threatens to divide the vote or weaken the strength of the party is looked upon as a thing to be avoided if possible. In the district above mentioned there are three candidates in the field for the nomination for Magistrate as follows: Squire Nimrod Hendren the present incumbent, Isaiah Prather and John Gordon. Squire Prather formerly held the position and was defeated for a re-election by Squire Hendren after a close contest and there is consequently considerable political bitterness between the two. Gordon the third man may be considered as a dark horse or compromise candidate. The district convention at which the claims of the various candidates are to be considered and settled comes off on Saturday next. The county convention had been set for June 1st but it will probably be postponed for various reasons, one of which may be to allow time to settle any troubled waters that may arise on the political seas as a result of the Magistrate contest above mentioned.

KICKING—No wonder the farmer is a grumbler, though not an unjust one as many people would have you believe. The farmer often complains and sometimes kicks hard against his luck but nine times out of ten when this happens he has a kick coming, as investigation will show. Just now the farmer in this particular section is kicking hard. The cutworm, that little pest of the early cornfield, is abroad in the land and it seems that its teeth are even sharper than usual. A good many farmers who were industrious enough to get their corn planted early are now sorry, for in many instances the cutworms have made their industry go for naught. The tender young corn is considered a very choice morsel by his wormship and whole fields have been devastated to such an extent as to make replanting a necessity. The season so far has been good and the corn planter would be happy were it not for the dad blasted cut worms.

RAY—The appointment of Dr. W. W. Ray as Superintendent of the Western Asylum at Hopkinsville came as a surprise to his many friends here who were not aware that he aspired to such a position until his application was made only a few days before the appointment came. The fact that Dr. Ray commanded such strong endorsement and landed the appointment over other competitors with such ease is a high compliment to his ability and high standing. Springfield can ill afford to lose Dr. Ray and his family who have many strong ties of friendship throughout the community. If real worth and ability and the strictest integrity count for anything Gov. Beckham could certainly not have made a better choice in this appointment than Dr. Ray.

COMING HOME.—Lieut. Will Reed and John Anderson two Springfield boys who have been serving with Uncle Sam's army in the Phillipines for the past two years are coming back home for a time at least. Will Reed's regiment the Thirty-first Kentucky sailed for this country on the tenth of this month. John Anderson has written friends here that he will be home in June and it is probable that he has also sailed by this time although he was in a different regiment. The boys have seen a good bit of the world and will doubtless have strange and interesting experiences to relate when they return.

BOWLING.—Interest in bowling which has all along been well kept up promises to receive new impetus by the formation of several bowling clubs. Match games among the clubs will be inaugurated and the rivalry between the teams will likely be warm. There is also some talk of organizing a ladies' club, and bowling parties are becoming fashionable.

A GENTLE HINT.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature,—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day,—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses For curing Consumption, Hemorages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup, or any disease of the Throat or Lungs its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Under treatment of our family physician he got worse as he could not sleep for the burning and itching. We used a box of "Banner Salve" on him and by the time it was gone he was well. The Doctor seeing it was curing him said, "Stick to it for it is doing him more good than anything I have done for him." Wood & Wimsatt

A Loan Sought

Many years ago Judge Lusk fined Thomas F. Marshall $10 for contempt of court; whereupon Mr. Marshall in his most courtly and gracious manner asked the Judge to loan him $10 until he could arrange to collect some fees and the cautious and wise Judge said: "The Commonwealth of Kentucky can better afford to lose $10 than the judge; Mr. Clerk, remit that fine." The Chinese have evidently heard of this episode in our judicial history; for the Chinese government has communicated to the allied governments its willingness to pay the indemnity provided the joint Powers will lend it the money with which to pay. The suave courtesy of the reply is equal to the grimness of the humor.—Lexington Press Transcript.

A Big Increase.

The State Board of Equalization which has been in session at Frankfort since February 11 will probably conclude its labors about the last of the month. The board took preliminary action upon the last twenty-two counties in the State Tuesday, thus concluding all of the preliminary work. About half of the final assessments have been fixed and the others will be arranged this month barring delays. The increase in the total assessments will be about $20,000,000 The counties of this section of the state upon which preliminary action was taken as follows Nelson, no change; Hardin, lands raised 5 per cent.; Washington lands rais.d 2 per cent.; Spencer, lands raised 3 per cent; Anderson, lands raised 8 per cent.; Bullit lands raised 8 per cent; lots, 3 per cent.; Larue, lands raised 5 per cent; Marion, lands raised 15 per cent.

Fortune in Sight

John C. Tibbs, the colored barber of this city, owns 165 shares of stock in the Northern Pacific, and the enormous jump of the stock on Wall street yesterday made the Danville owner immensely wealthy for a short time. According to the Louisville Times the stock at one time yesterday shot up to over $6,020 per share. Taking these figures Tibbs was worth over $900,000 At eleven o'clock yesterday he telegraphed headquarters in New York offering to sell fifty four shares of his stock, but the telegram reached there too late. Interested parties at that time not wishing to make further investments. He ordered the stock to be left on the market and hopes with the opening today it will be sold. The present owner came into possession of the stock at the death of his father, Ben Tibbs, who secured it over thirty years ago in exchange for government bonds, the cost of which had been $10 000. During the panicky times of 73 the shares dropped to 15 cents each, but in recent years have been paying a dividend of one per cent.—Danville Advocate.

A sudden attack of croup in the small hours of darkness is very annoying to the parent who needs sleep. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey will date a child's croupy cough and allay the irritation, ending the danger in less time than it will take to go for a doctor. All mothers who have used it keep a bottle for every emergency. It is harmless.

MR. F. D. Arnold, Ia. writes: He was troubled with kidney disease about three years. Had to get up several times during the night but three bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure effected a complete cure, He feels better than he ever did and recommends it to his friends. Wood & Wimsatt.

Lost his Dog

The Pantagraph, of Bloomington, Illinois, relates this story of a Danvillian and his dog: A great many people go to the police headquarters with unusual requests. One of the most peculiar met with lately, was that of a Kentuckian who appeared at headquarters last Saturday and offered $5 to the policeman who would find his lost dog. The stranger said the missing canine was only a common cur, but that he was a dandy, and his owner wanted him back. He related how when he lived in his former home in Danville, he had often ridden to town on his horse and the dog would follow him. He would put the dog astride of the horse and the former would drive the charger home. He related many other remarkable deeds of intelligence which he credited to the dog. He said he came to Bloomington on his way to Kentucky and was boarding at an uptown hotel, leaving his dog tied in a certain room. When he went back the animal was missing and he thought he could give $5 to get him back again.

A preparation such as Kodol Dyspepsia Cure, which, with no aid from the stomach, will digest your food, certainly can't help but do you good. Haydon & Robertson.

About the Presidents

The majority of the Presidents of our country have been sons of farmers—14 out of 24. The father of one, President McKinley, was a manufacturer Only of one William Henry Harrison, it is recorded that he was a Statesman. One was a tanner and one a sexton, the fathers of Grant and Johnson. Buchanen and Hays were sons of merchants, but tipical ones. Arthur and Cleveland were the sons of clergymen. The fathers of Tyler and John Quincy Adams were lawyers. Washington was a surveyor and planter. Lincoln was a farmer but he left it early for law. Four of them began life as teachers—Adams, Garfield, Arthur and Cleveland. One was a doctor—William Henry Harrison. Jackson, Taylor and Grant were soldiers. Grant was the only West Point man. Fifteen were college men, one self taught and five were public school boys.

Regarding the ancestry of our President, eight claim Scotch and Scotch Irish decent, and Welch ancestry; Van Buren Dutch; and the remaining 14 had English forefathers. The Presidents all married American born women but John Quincy Adams, whose wife Louisa C. Johnson, was born in London where they were married Cleveland is the only ex President living. None have lived to the alloted three score and ten.

Most of the Presidents are Southern born. New England has given four, Vergina claims the honor of giving seven Ohio has the next place with Grant, Hays, Grafield, Harrison and McKinley. Pensylvania gave Buchanan and Kentucky Lincoln; Massachusetts, John Adams and his son John Quincy Adams.

Tobacco Planting

The very latest information as to the intention of the farmers in the Blue Grass section goes to show it is not his idea to increase last year's acreage of tobacco the coming season There seems an indifference on the part of the farmer which would indicate if all conditions are favorable, he will plant his usual acreage, but if when the time of planting comes around and any other crop requires his attention, tobacco will be a secondary consideration, and few acres will be planted. Prices of Burley tobacco during the season have not ranged high, and after studying the market conditions, we see little reason why the farmer should increase his acreage, and a good many reasons for his decreasing. We think the acreage planted in the Burley belt will be from 10 to 15 per cent over last year and with same weather condition as then which produced a light crop this year will be a large one, and there is a possibility, in pounds decrease will be shown from 15 to 20 per cent less than the crop of 1900.—Weed.

A Sprained Ankle Quickly Cured.

"At one time I suffered from a severe sprain of the ankle," says Geo. E. Cary, editor of the Gutlet, Washington, Va., "After using several well recommended medicines without success, I tried Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and am pleased to say that relief came to me as I began its use and a complete cure speedily followed. This remedy has also been used in my family for four bitten feet with the best results. I cheerfully recommend its use to all who may need a first-class liniment." Sold by Haydon & Robertson.

Geo. C. Hickock, Curtiss, Wis. says: "Foley's Kidney Cure has been tested and found to be all you claim for it. I have given it to my father and it is the only thing that ever helped him." Wood & Wimsatt.

Country and City.

Ambition often causes a boy to leave the farm to seek a fortune in a large city. Misfortune however, very often compels the same lad to soon turn his face towards the old homestead. We should think it would be more pleasant to plow a stubborn mule through a stumpy field than to be cooped up in a smoke stained factory, where pure air and sunshine are unknown We do not dispute that the attractions of the city are many, but we refuse to grant that the attractions of the country are not more. One field of waving wheat is more beautiful than a picture on canvas. The tune of the reaper in the dale bears with it an inspiration and a music sweeter than that issuing from the silver horns of a theatre orchestra. The hillsides and the vallies are parks constructed by the hand of nature. They are surrounded by no iron fence nor guarded by officers of the law. They have no decorations save the grasses, trees, vines flowers and streams. The only music is the warbling of the song bird and the tune of the breeze And who is dissatisfied with this array of magnificence? A towering oak has more grandure than sky-scraping masonery. The nodding roses along the path through the meadow are prettier pictures than can be found along the city's great throughfare. If you are looking for attractions turn your eyes to the West, East, North and south and you will find them If you are looking for gold, put a whip over a mule's back and start a plow through the soil, and you will find a gold mine. If you are looking for comfort, go out into the bright sunshine and breath the fresh air. In the city the attractions are artificel, in the country they are natural. In the city your ambition is likely to be dwarfed. In the country it is likely to be gratified.—Ex.

Narrow Escape.

Mr. Bert Hall, of Mt. Washington, came near being buried alive one day last week His well had filled up with sticky mud, and he was having it dug out, and as he was not feeling very well, decided he would go down and dig awhile so as to perspire; the well being a bored one only one could dig at a time. Pretty soon after he began digging the well caved in and burried him nearly to the arm pits. The work of digging him out which took some little time, was begun and finally he was rescued.—Spencer Courier.

Foley's Honey and Tar for children, safe, sure. No opiates.

Four years a Fugitive.

About four years ago Sam Thornton, colored, was one of the bad niggers of Lebanon. He maimed the stock of other people got drunk and raised sheol just for the fun of it. One night he went home and finding Alex Hayden there on an unwelcome guest, he expressed his displeasure with a load of shot from an old musket, and Hayden emerged from the fray minus a arm. Then Sam made himself scarce about town, and although he has not been seen since by the officers, he told Policeman Thompson that he never had been more than six miles from town during the four years he has been at large. Several indictments were returned against him but he kept away from town and the officers made no special effort to locate him. Monday one of Sam's relatives was a corpse in the upper end of town and Sam went up to be present at the wake. He tanked up pretty well before he got there and as the boose began to get in its work, he decided to start a rough house. The rest of the negroes assembled had terror stricken, leaving Sam and the corpse alone. They notified Policeman Ark Thompson that a negro was disturbing the peace and that he was wanted. Ark and his colleague Mr. Brent, went up and arrested the negro. He was locked up, and the chances are that he will have a free ride on the railroad cars from Lebanon to Frankfort.

Skin affections will readily disappear by using DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Look out for counterfeits. If you get DeWitt's you will get good results. It is the quick and positive cure for piles. Haydon & Robertson.

"I had a running sore on my breast for over a year," says Henry E. Richardson of Wilmeyville, N. Y., "and tried a great many remedies, but got no relief until I used Banner Salve. After using one half box, I was perfectly cured. I cannot recommend it too highly." Wood & Wimsatt.

Where is He.

Mr. Henry Bayne, of Chaplin, has mysterous disappeared, leaving no trace of his whereabouts. He had been making his home for some time past with his brother in-law, N. R. Morgan, and was last seen near Chaplin river by a colored man about four weeks ago. Although a diligent search has been made for the missing man no trace of him can be found, and his relatives are apprehensive that he has been foully dealt with.

Mr. Bayne is aged about fifty years, and about twenty years ago was sent to Lakeland Asylum to be treated for mental trouble. He was discharged as cured, and has since lived a rather secluded life, although he has never manifested any further signs of insanity. He is unmarried, and is a brother of Messers R S. Bayne, of Chaplin, and S. A. Bayne, of Maple Hill. Any information regarding the missing man will be thankfully received by his relatives.—Barstown Standard.

The Presidents Trip.

President McKinley started from Washington on a special train, April 29th, for a trip across the continent, going to the southern route and returning through the Yellowstone Park. Mrs. McKinley accompanies him and the members of his Cabinet, with the exception of Secretaries Gage and Root and Attorney General Knox, as Secretary Long, who is to join the party somewhere en route. The journey will extend over 15,000 miles and will carry the President and his party through 24 states and territories.

Mr. W. J. Baxter of Stone Fence, O., says he suffered with piles fifteen years. He tried many remedies without results until he used DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve and was quickly cured. Haydon & Robertson.

Throat Cut.

About five weeks ago Wm. Henry Bayne of the Chaplin neighbo hood left his home under mysterious circumstances. He had been despondent for several weeks before but members of the family thought that it would wear away and all would be well. His continued absence aroused the family and caused them to grow uneasy. A search for him was begun and inquiry as to his whereabouts in the neighborhood was made. His home is no very far distance from Chaplin river, and suicide by drowning was the theory advanced. This theory was strengthened by the fact that he could be tracked to the river but no trace of his return could be found. Diligent search failed to reveal a trace of the body. The account of his mysterious disappearance has been going the the rounds of the press. On last Saturday morning the mystery was solved by the finding his body, in in a small locust grove not three hundred yards from his home His throat had been cut, and near him was the knife with which he had performed the dreadful deed. His body was so badly decomposed as to be almost beyond recognition. The remains were buried at the Chaplin Fork Cemetery on Saturday evening.

On the day before he left home he asked some of the family for a sheet of paper. Being busy at the time the request was made they told him that they would get the paper in a few minutes. He said that he was in to hurry for the paper the next morning would do as well. The next morning he left without securing the paper. It is surposed that he wished to leave some statement. Before this he told some of the family that when people were tired of living it is a pity they have not courage enough to end their lives.

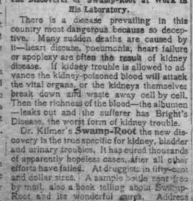
The Eminent Kidney and Bladder Specialist.



The Discoverer of Swamp-Root at Work in His Laboratory.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell. Then the sickness of the diseased kidneys—leaks out and the sufferer has Bright's Disease, the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root the new discovery is the true specific for kidney, bladder and urinary troubles. It has cured thousands of apparently hopeless cases, after all other efforts have failed. At druggists in fifty-cent and dollar sizes. A sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling about Swamp-Root and its wonderful cures. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and mention this paper.

In Memory.

Died in Brisbon May 1st 1901, Miss Nellie Nunan in the thirty first year of her age, after a lingering illness of consumption, which she bore with christian patience and resignation, fortified with the rites of the holy Catholic church, of which she was a consistant and faithful member. She was born and reared in Washington county where she had many friends who loved her for her cheerful and kind heart. Her sweet and gentle disposition and unselfish nature won all. The writer of this memoir holds her in great ful remembrance, For indeed were her friends who can not remember some kindness at her hands, and though we will sadly miss her, yet we know God in his wisdom knows all things for the best. The large attendance at her funeral bore evidence in what esteem she was held, and truly it can be said of Dear Nellie none knew her but to love her. none named her but to praise. Grieve not too long dear ones, for the loved one, but let us pray that she may be numbered among God's loved ones.

The Conductor's Ready Answer.

The Metropolitan Street Railway company has in its employ a philosopher in the person of a Broadway conductor. It was late in the evening, and his car on its up town trip had reached the vicinity of the city hall. As it passed one of the taller office buildings a stout woman, clutching a bag in her arms, exclaimed:

"Oh, conductor, how many stories high is that building?"

"Leven," laconically replied the conductor, without so much as an upward glance. The woman sank back with a sigh of satisfaction.

Just then a small man with a large traveling bag rushed in almost out of breath.

"I say, conductor," he gasped, "what time can I get to the Grand Central depot?"

"Leven," was the quiet reply.

"That's good," commented the small man, evidently relieved.

At this juncture another man climbed aboard that wanted to know about what time the car would reach the Gilsey House.

"Leven," again replied the conductor, with a weary look.

When questioned as to the uniformity of his answer he replied:

"Yes. You see, if you hesitate about answering 'em, they git worried, but if you have an answer ready they're satisfied. Now, along this time of night, I always say "Leven.' It's a good, handy number, easy to say. Other times I use other numbers. I allus have a lot of stock answers on hand. It saves time and trouble."—New York Sun.

The Queen and Jenny Lind.

There is a pretty story told of Queen Victoria and Jenny Lind which shows how the modesty of two women, the queen of England and the queen of song, caused a momentary awkwardness which the gentle tact of the singer overcame.

It was on a night when Jenny Lind was to sing at Her Majesty's Opera House that the queen made her first public appearance after the memorable Chartist day.

For the great artist, too, this was a first appearance, for it was the beginning of her song in a place where the queen of song was unparalleled in fame. It happened that the queen entered the royal box at the same moment that the prima donna stepped upon the stage. Instantly a tumult of acclamation burst forth.

Jenny Lind modestly retired to the back of the stage, waiting till the demonstration of loyalty to the sovereign should subside. The queen, refusing to appropriate to herself that which she imagined to be intended for the artist, made no acknowledgment.

At length, when the situation became embarrassing, Jenny Lind, with ready tact, ran forward to the footlights and sang "God Save the Queen," which was caught up at the end of the solo by the orchestra, chorus, and audience. The queen then came to the front of her box and bowed, and the opera was resumed.

Why Roads Are Crooked In China.

The Chinese road is private property, a strip taken from somebody's land. This is done much against the will of the owner, since he not only loses the use of it, but also still has to pay taxes on it.

One consequence is that it is wide enough for only one vehicle, and carts can pass one another only by trespassing on the cultivated land. To prevent this the farmers dig deep ditches by the roadside. As the surface wears away the ditches often get gradually grows lower, and after awhile it becomes a drain for the surrounding fields. A current forms in the rainy season, which still further hollows it out, and thus has arisen the proverb that a road a thousand years old becomes a river.

Those whose lands are used for roads naturally prefer to have the roads run along the edge of their farms instead of cutting across them, and this accounts for the fact that Chinese roads are often so crooked that one may have to go a considerable distance to reach a place that is in reality but a few hundred feet away. This interests the stranger.—Church Eclectic.

How the Car Got There.

The other day at Twenty-sixth street an inspector "hopped" on the front platform of a Madison avenue electric car bound down town. He said to the motorman:

"Where the dickens is this car going?"

"Why, to the Brooklyn bridge,—of course."

"Cut off and look at yer signs!"

The motorman did so and discovered that the sign on the front hood of the car read: "One Hundred and Thirty-fifth street," the sign on the right side of the roof read, "Second avenue," and the sign on the rear hood, "Astor place." The conductor and motorman each examined the signs, the inspector permitted the car to proceed.—Electrical Review.

Shaves of a Lifetime.

Beard appears to grow at the same rate and to follow the same rules of personal conduct as the hair of the head. So if a man began shaving when he was 16 and lives to be 70 years old he will have cut more than a little bit off the top. If he could keep in position all he has thrown away, a head of hair 35 feet long and a beard 27 feet long, all in one bunch, would enable him to travel with a circus summers and sit in a store window to advertise a hair restorer in the winter.—Amatee's Magazine.

Artistic.

Sne—You said you were going to marry an artist, and now you are engaged to marry a dentist!

Flo—Well, isn't he an artist? He draws from real life.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

A Modern Polonius.

"My son," said the fond but wise parent, "you are leaving me to go out into the world. I have nothing to give you but advice. Never tell a lie. If you wish to put one in circulation, get it published. A lie cannot live, but it takes one a blamed long time to fade out of print.

"Always read your contract. A man might consider he was getting a sinecure if he were offered a position picking blossoms off a century plant; but, you see, he wouldn't have a remunerative occupation if he were paid on piecework.

"Be not overcritical. Even the most ordinary sort of a review can tell when the other fellow is making a fool of himself.

"Remember that the young man, like the angler's worm, is rather better for being visibly alive.

"Be careful in the choice of your surroundings. Environment will do a great deal for a man. For example, flour and water in a china jug is cream sauce. In a pail on the sidewalk it is blitzkrieger's paste.

"Don't forget that there's a time for everything and that everything should be done in its proper time. Never flirt on bargains in umbrellas on a rainy day.

"You may make enemies. If you know who they are, don't mention them. Silence is golden. It saves the money that might otherwise be spent in defending a libel suit. If you don't know who they are—well, abuse labeled on a concealed enemy is like charity indiscriminately bestowed; it's a good thing wasted."—New York Commercial Advertiser.

How Blaine Remembered Henderson.

It was before General Henderson had been elected to congress, and Blaine was speaking at the house. Henderson was in Washington, and naturally Blaine was one of the statesmen that he most desired to meet, and the opportunity came of a morning just as the speaker was passing through the lobby on his way to the marble rotunda. The formal greetings were exchanged in a brief moment, and General Henderson was left to see the swinging doors close on the form of the Republican leader.

Six years later General Henderson again came to Washington, this time to get Iowa divided into two judicial districts. He put up at Wormley's, where Blaine also lived. It being in those days a fashionable and flourishing hostelry. A week or so after his arrival from Iowa, as General Henderson was entering the dining room, he met Blaine after having passed and repassed him many times. The blaine man grasped him cordially by the hand, called him by name and inquired about Iowa.

"I had heard of Senator Blaine's wonderful faculty for remembering names," says General Henderson. "When I had seated myself at the table, I beckoned to the head waiter.

"'Isn't Mr. Blaine asked you my name?' I said to him. 'Now think hard and be sure of your answer.'

"'Yes, sah,' replied the waiter. 'He done called me orah hal' night an asked yo' name an all about yo'. I told him yo' was Mistah Henderson.'"—Washington Post.

Origin of the Yosemite Valley.

It is perfectly obvious to those familiar with glacial phenomena that Yosemite is quite an ordinary and necessary product of glacial erosion under the conditions prevailing in that locality. The main glacier came down Tenaya canyon, cutting it to a steep but fairly uniform grade. Yosemite valley is but a continuation of that gorge. The end of the glacier at the time that it was cutting Yosemite extended not far beyond Fort Monroe. It remained there for a long time and therefore plowed out the bottom of the valley to a considerable depth. Branch glaciers joined the Tenaya glacier when it filled Yosemite, coming down the valleys of Yosemite, Little Yosemite, Illilouette and Bridal Veil and other creeks and forming hanging valleys at the junction points. The formation of the verdant cliffs of the valley may have been due to undermining and may have been aided by the cleavage of the rocks. On the recession of the glacier doubtless the bottom of the valley was occupied by a lake which has since been partially filled by detritus and drained by the erosion of Merced river cutting through the rock wall at the foot of the valley.—National Geographic Magazine.

Where Girls Must Marry.

In Russia if a girl desires to study at either of the universities etiquette requires that she should be married. Accordingly she goes through the civil form of marriage with one of the men students, whom she may never have been before and perhaps may never speak to again.

These marriages are perfectly legal, and if the contracting parties like each other they are united for life, but otherwise the marriage is dissolved when their university course is finished and both are free to marry again. Sonia Kovalevski, the celebrated mathematician, went through the civil marriage ceremony with a student whom she then saw for the first time, but who eventually became her husband.—Home Notes.

A Refutation.

"They are accusing you of trying to take money out of the public treasury, and give it away."

"Now, isn't that nonsense?" exclaimed the cold blooded politician. "Anybody who knows me knows that if I could get money out of the public treasury I wouldn't give it away. I'd hang on to it."—Washington Star.

(Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master.)
These are days of records and of the beating of records. Benson's Porous Plaster, for quickness of action and thoroughness of cure, has no records to beat except its own. Benson's Plaster, always the best, always the leader, is to-day better than ever. It sticks to the skin but never sticks in its tracks. It marches on.
The people not only want to be cured but cured quickly—and Benson's Plaster does it. Coughs, colds, lumbago, asthma, bronchitis, liver and kidney complaints, and other ills appropriable by an external remedy, yield to Benson's as lookers to heat.
Neither Belladonna, Strengthening or Capsicum plasters are to be compared with Benson's. People who have once tested the merits of Benson's Plaster have no use for any other external remedy.
More than 5,000 physicians and druggists (and a thousand times as many non-professional persons) have called Benson's Plasters one of the few genuine remedies that can be trusted.
Fifty-five highest awards have been made to it in competition with the best known plasters of Europe and America. Better proof of its merits is inconceivable. Be sure to get the genuine.
For sale by all druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States, on receipt of 25c. each.

The Marion county grand jury has adjourned after returning one hundred and twenty one indictments, the largest number found at one session for many years. Ninety three of the indictments are against alleged poker players, one having been returned against each person. A number of those indicted are from surrounding towns And they do say some good hard earned Springfield money has gone over to help as a salve to the wounded peace and dignity of the commonwealth of Kentucky and incidentally to fatten the pocket book of some Court officials in the little matter of costs.

There is probably no lecture before the public today that is so well known and universally admired as Gen. Gordon who gives his famous lecture "The Last Days of the Confederacy" at the Opera House here on the night of June 5th. Among the press notices we note the following from a Brooklyn paper: He told the story of Lee's surrender in a masterly and most effective manner. He briefly outlined the early stages of the war, and rested the burden of his narrative on Gettysburg and Appomattox. His humor was keen; his pathos affecting. The closing scene of the bloody drama was splendidly presented. It was a tale inspiring to the young and intensely realistic to the old.

Maried in Louisville.

News were received here last week of the marriage in Louisville of a well known young Washington county man. The Louisville Times gives the following account of the affair:

The marriage of Miss Tillie Hancock and Mr. Reed Spaulding was solemnized Thursday afternoon at the bride's home, Rev. Father Brady, of St Cecilia's church, officiating. Miss Hancock is an accomplished young woman. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hancock of 2722 Alford avenue. Mr. Spaulding is the son of Mr. Taylor Spaulding, of Springfield Ky. The couple left immediately after the marriage for a two week's bridal trip. They will make their home at Springfield Ky.

Bowling Games.

A bowling contest between two picked teams took place at the alleys on Tuesday night. Five games were bowled and the team headed by Baker won three out of five. The teams were made up as follows:

Baker. Captain Joe Smith, Ryan, Haydon and McCabe.

Edelen captain. Thompson, Reidel. Simms and McClellan.

The following is the score:

	Bakers	Edelens
First Game	605	609
Second "	673	659
Third "	642	745
Fourth "	751	717
Fifth "	758	728

Luckett Simms rolled 198 the highest for his side while Joe Smith made the same number for his club.

The two teams will meet again for more games.

Is He Crazy?

A young man well dressed and of genteel appearance rode into town yesterday about noon from Bardstown and attempted to trade a horse which he was riding to several persons whom he met. He told several different stories and acted in a suspicious manner. While the young man was in town Marshal Grace was called up by telephone from Bardstown and instructed to arrest him and keep the horse. It seems that he had stayed the night before in Bardstown and had traded off two horses to Mr. John B. Grundy the liveryman and had received the horse which he rode to this place.

After the young man left Bardstown, Mr. Grundy received word from Louisville to the effect that the horses which the young man had in his possession were stolen and their owner had traced them to Bardstown.

The young man gave his name as Amos McCambpell, son of Amos G. McCampbell of Louisville. Mr. MCampbell was communicated with and said that he thought the young man was crazy and further developments confirm that theory. Young McCampbell says that he had been staying with a Mr. James in Bullitt county and says that Mr. James son's got him into the scrape. He was wild in his talk and is evidently demented. Marshal Grace took the young man and the horse back to Bardstown yesterday evening.

Tuesday evening Mr. E. W. Duke of St. Joseph, Mo., was uniquely entertained by eleven of Springfield's representative society men at Dr. Hord's bachelor quarters on Main Street. Promptly at nine o'clock the handsome host led the way to the banquet hall to strains of sweetest music where all enjoyed a tempting lunch served by Mrs. Hord. A Dutch Smoker gave excuse for excluding the fair sex, but as the lights grew dim and whirls and curls of smoke arose from merry lips filling the air with narcotic fragrance though absent in body each man beheld in his own cloud of smoke the spirit-face of "just one girl." From such blissful dreams they were called to earth again by tinkling of glasses as the host arose to his feet and requested those present to drink to the health of the guest of honor, who responded in a graceful tribute to Kentucky, her hospitable sons and beautiful daughters.

FEATHERED FREAKS.

BIRDS WITHOUT WINGS AND BIRDS WITHOUT SONG.

The Penguin Is a Bird That Walks and Swims, but Does Not Fly—The Bird That Can Run Faster Than the Swiftest Horse—The Tailor Bird.

Birds without wings are found in New Zealand and Australia. Kiwi is the name of one species. Beautiful mats are made of the feathers of the white variety, but it takes ten years and more to collect enough feathers to make even a small mat which would sell for about $150.

Birds without song belong to Hawaii. In Honolulu one sees a bird about the size of the robin, an independent sort of fellow, that walks about like a chicken, instead of hopping like a well trained bird of the United States, and it has no song.

A bird that walks and swims, but does not fly, is the penguin. No nests are made by penguins, but the one egg laid at a time by the mother is carried about under her absurd little wing or under her leg.

The largest of flight birds is the California vulture or condor, measuring from tip to tip 9½ to 10 feet and exceeding considerably in size the condor of South America. The bird lays but one egg each season—large, oval, ashy green in color and deeply pitted, so distinctive in appearance that it cannot be confounded with any other.

The California condor is rapidly approaching extinction and museums all over the world are eager to secure living specimens. It is believed that there is only one in captivity.

Another large bird is the rhinoceros bird, which is about the size of a turkey. One recently shot on the island of Java had in its crop a rim from a small telescope and three brass buttons, evidently belonging to a British soldier's uniform.

A bird which is swifter than a horse is the road runner of the southwest. Its alliance are the ground cuckoo, the lizard bird and the snake killer, snakes being a favorite diet. In northern Mexico, western Texas and southern Colorado and California it is found.

The bird measures about two feet from tip to tip and is a dull brown in color. Its two legs are only about two inches long, but neither horses with their four legs nor hounds nor electric pacing machines are in it for swiftness when it comes to running.

Most curious are the sewing or tailor birds of India—little yellow things not much larger than one's thumb. To escape finding a prey to snakes and monkeys the tailor bird picks up a dead leaf and flies up into a high tree, and with a fiber for a thread and its bill for a needle sews the leaf to some green one hanging from the tree. The sides are sewed up, an opening being left at the top. That a nest is swinging in the tree no snake or monkey or even man would suspect.

Many a regiment cannot compare in precision of movement with the flight of the curlews of Florida when changing their way to their feeding grounds miles away, all in uniform lines in unbroken perfection. The curlews are dainty, bud-charming birds to see, some pink, some white.

Birds in flight often lose their bearings, being blown aside from their course by the wind. In this case they are as badly off as a mariner without a compass in a strange sea on a starless night.

All very young birds, by a wise provision of nature, are entirely without fear until they are able to fly. The reason of the delayed development of fear is that being unable to fly, the birds would struggle and fall from their nests at every noise and be killed. Suddenly, almost in a day, the birds develop the sense of fear, when their feathers are enough grown so that they can fly.

It is always a source of wonder to arctic explorers to find such a quantity of singing birds within the arctic circle. They are abundant beyond belief. But the immense crop of cranberries, cranberries of every description ripen in the northern swamps accounts for the presence of the birds.

A stick of wood seven inches long and a quarter of an inch thick was once taken from a wren's nest. It is very singular that so small and delicate a bird should use such rough material with which to construct a nest. If an eagle should use material proportioned to its size, its nest would be made up of trees falls and small saw logs.

The extraordinary situations in which nests are found occasionally almost give one the impression that birds must be endowed with a sense of humor. For instance, a wren built its nest upon a scarecrow, a dead sparrow-hawk, which a farmer had hung up to frighten away winged ravagers of his crop. In front of an old jacket hanging in a barn a bird, also a wren, made its nest, which when discovered contained five eggs. It was a robin that raised a young family in a cleverly new and a robin that built its nest in the organ pipes of a church. Places of worship have always been favorite building places for birds.

SORES AND ULCERS.

Sores and Ulcers never become chronic unless the blood is in poor condition—is sluggish, weak and unable to throw off the poisons that accumulate in it. The system must be relieved of the unhealthy matter through the skin and pores and kept so life would follow should it heal before the blood has been made pure and healthy and all impurities eliminated from the system. S.S.S. begins the cure by first cleansing and invigorating the blood, building up the general health and removing from the system A CONSTANT DRAIN UPON THE SYSTEM. What this has been accomplished the discharge gradually ceases, and the sore or ulcer heals. It is the tendency of these old indolent sores to grow worse and worse, and eventually destroy the bones. Local applications, while soothing and to some extent relievate pain, cannot reach the seat of the trouble. S. S. S. does, and no matter how apparently hopeless your condition, even though your constitution has broken down, it will build you up and make you rich. It supplies the rich, pure blood necessary to heal the sore and nourish the debilitated, emaciated body.

Mr. J. B. Talbert, Lock Box 92, Wilcox, Miss., says: "For years one or more big sores on the foot was our solid sore. Several physicians treated me and I made trips to Hot Springs but found no relief. I was induced to try S. S. S., and it makes me happy to say that a few bottles made my sore strong."

S.S.S. is the only entirely vegetable blood purifier known—contains no poisonous mineral to ruin the digestion and add to, rather than relieve your suffering. If your flesh does not heal readily when scratched, bruised or cut, your blood is in bad condition, and any ordinary sore is sure to become chronic.

Send for our free book and write our physicians about your case. We make no charge for this service.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

The Universal Cry—Wanted, a Man.

Never did the world call more loudly for young men with force, energy and purpose, young men trained to do some one thing, than today. Though hundreds of thousands are out of employment, yet never before was it so hard to get a good employee for almost any position as today. Everywhere people are asking where to find a good servant, a polite and efficient clerk, an honest cashier, a good stenographer who can spell and punctuate and is generally well informed. Managers and superintendents of great institutions everywhere are hunting for good people to fill all sorts of positions. They tell us that it is almost impossible to find efficient help for any department.

There are hundreds of applicants for every vacant place, but they either show signs of dissipation, are rude or gruff in manner, are slouchy or slipshod in dress, are afraid of hard work, lack education or intelligence or have some fatal defects which bar them out. Even if they are given positions very few are able to hold them, and so this great army tramps about from store to store, from office to factory, wondering why others succeed when they fail, why others get the positions when they are denied.

The head of one large commercial establishment says that the blunders and mistakes of its employees cost $25,000 a year to correct, notwithstanding his utmost vigilance.—Success.

Food of Prehistoric Man.

Upon examining some skulls dating back from the stone age Mr. Charters White, M. R. C. S., noted that several of the teeth, although quite free from caries, were thickly coated with tartar. It occurred to him that it would be possible by a rough analysis to identify any particles of food that might be imbedded in this natural concretion and so reveal the character of the aliment partaken of by prehistoric man. Dissolving the tartar in a weak acid, a residue was left which, under the microscope, was found to consist of cornstarch particles, being from the outside of the husks, spiral vessels from vegetables, particles of starch, the point of a fish tooth, a conglomeration of oval cells probably of fruit, the bristles of a hair brush and portions of wood.

In addition to this varied list were some round red bodies the origin of which defied detection and many sandy particles, some relative to quartz and some to flint. These mineral fragments were very likely attributable to the rough stones used in grinding the corn and would account for the erosion of the masticating surfaces, which in many cases was strongly marked. This inquiry into the food of men who lived not less than 4,000 years ago is a matter of great archæological interest.—Chambers' Journal.

Poor Opera Glasses.

"Cheap opera glasses are an abomination," said an eye specialist recently. "There is no doubt about this. I have made a special study of the matter. Lots of eyes are nearly ruined by them. I find this particularly true of young girls who get a great deal to the theater and who seem to think they must have opera glasses. To their way of thinking an opera glass is an opera glass, and that's all there is to it. So they buy cheap ones and then wonder why they have such headaches.

"Unless the very best lenses are used I should advise everybody to taboo opera glasses. The farther from the stage one is the better and more perfect the glasses should be. Exactly the reverse of this is actually the case, for the people who sit in the gods or in the balcony are usually the ones who have the poorest glasses. A performance viewed with the naked eye is much more satisfactory than one by way of glasses. An opera glass gives but a limited view, and only the one object on which it is focused is visible. I don't see why people use even the best of them."—Philadelphia Record.

The Minister Won.

A minister was one day walking along a road, and, to his astonishment, he saw a crowd of boys sitting in front of a ring with a small dog in the center. When he came up to them, he put the following question: "What are you doing to the dog?"

One little boy said, "Whoever tells the biggest lie gets the dog."

"Oh," said the minister, "I am surprised at you little boys, for when I was like you I never told a lie."

There was silence for awhile until one of the boys shouted, "I stand him up the dog!"—London Leader.

Over In Sweden.

"Over in Sweden the suburban railway lines have to provide a freight car for intoxicated persons."

"I don't suppose they label it that way, do they?"

"I don't know. Probably they brand it either 'Spirits in packages' or else 'Hardware.'"

"Hardware?"

"Yes. Skates."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Dickens' Supremacy.

"So this, then, is your husband's new library, Mrs. Muchly. Ah, I see he has Dickens and Thackeray side by side. Which do you consider the greatest of the two?"

"Oh, Dickens! Joshua paid $2.40 more for them Dickenses than he had to give for Thackeray's books right at the same shop."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The pain produced by a hornet's sting is caused by a poison injected into the wound, and so instantaneous is its effect as to cause the attack of this insect to resemble a violent blow in the face.

Diamonds in the rough are sometimes spoiled in the cutting, just as some pupils are spoiled in the educating.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Consideration.

"My wife is very considerate," said the newly married man. "She is always buying me neckties and colored shirts."

"And I suppose you are considerate and generous in your turn."

"Yes, I prudently hurt her feelings for the world. I wear 'em."—Washington Star.

The manuscripts of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries are in many cases almost illegible on account of the fading of the ink. At that time the lampblack inks passed out of use and chemical inks became popular.

SOME CURIOUS CHURCHES.

Conversations Which Meet In Inns, Windmills and Boats.

A public house is one of the last places one would expect to be used as a place of worship. The inhabitants of Tyrrell's Ford, a village near Winchester, would not consider this at all a novelty, because for several years past the Phœnix inn has been used Sunday for religious purposes. The room in which the religious services are held will comfortably hold about 200 people and opens at the back on to a pretty tea garden. The most remarkable feature of the services is that they are often conducted while the public house is open for business purposes, and the customers can join in the singing if they are so disposed.

There are two or three instances of public houses which have been converted into churches, and there are also two or three theaters which are now places of worship. The Fen district possesses a canalboat church. There are a large number of people who live some distance away from any church, and the canalboat church travels from place to place for the benefit of such folk. The boat will seat a congregation of about 100.

The old chapel of ease at Tunbridge Wells has a unique situation. It stands in two counties and three parishes. When the clergyman leaves the vestry, he comes out of the parish of Frant of Sussex. If he is going to officiate at the altar, he walks into the parish of Tunbridge, in Kent. If, on the other hand, he is going to preach the sermon, he walks from the parish of Frant to the parish of Speldhurst on his way to the pulpit.

The chapel at Milton Bryant is situated in the village. The reason for the selection of this strange site was because no landowner would would grant any other position.

The "windmill" church near Belgate is familiar to London cyclists. Not so familiar is the underground church at Brighton. Owing to some "ancient lights" difficulty, the authorities could not "build up," and as the site was a good one they decided to "build down."—London Mail.

USING HIS WITS.

Showing How People May Be Guided by Inference.

"You see," said the man with the bulging forehead and prominent nose, "if people would only be guided more by inference it would save lots of useless trouble."

"I don't understand you," said the man who had been tickling a pimple on his chin.

"Why, for instance, I passed a frozen pond one winter day. On the ice I saw a pair of skates, a boy's cap and a mitten. Out in the middle of the pond the ice was broken. Did I jump to the conclusion that a boy had been drowned and raise a great hullabaloo about it?"

"Of course you did, or else you ought to be prosecuted. You ought to have said you passed on and said nothing?"

"I do," calmly replied the man of the forehead. "I inferred instead of jumping to a false conclusion."

"But you had to infer that the boy was under the ice," protested the other.

"Not a bit of it. If the boy had fallen in, the skates and cap and mittens would have gone with him. I simply inferred that he had seen a rabbit and given chase. I was right too. In the course of five minutes I met him on the road."

"Oh, you did! And maybe you inferred something else."

"Of course I did. As he had the nose-bleed, I inferred that he had fallen over a log in the chase and got left, and he admitted that such was the case."

"Then you ought to have wound up the performance by inferring whether it was a male or female rabbit."

"It wasn't necessary, my captious friend. As I passed on I found the rabbit, dead from exhaustion, and it was a male."—Washington Post.

Historical Divisions of Time.

For convenience, by historians, usually divided into three great eras—ancient, medieval and modern. The ancient period is considered as ending with the earliest times down to the fall of the Roman empire in the west in A. D. 476; the medieval from that time to the discovery of America by Columbus in 1492 and the modern from that time to the present. Some historians prefer to put the end of the medieval period at the capture of Constantinople by the Turks, about 40 years earlier than the Columbus event. The dark ages are often held to be coeval with the medieval era, but some authorities think that the term should be applied only to the part of the era extending from the downfall of the empire of Charlemagne, in the ninth century, onward.

An Absurd Superstition.

A popular belief is that the sound produced by a little insect known as a "death watch" portends the death of some relative or friend. That the noise made by this little creature resembles the ticking of a watch is unquestionable, but the superstition is an absurd one.

Wrinkles Come

To many a face which should still be smooth and fair. Worry doesn't bring them. There are no cares and anxieties to furrow the face. They are the signs of physical suffering, graven by the hand of Pain. It is the hard work of the diseases which affect the womanly organs that they write plainly the sad record of suffering on the face and form. The skin becomes sallow, the cheeks sunken, and the eyes look dull, the body falls away. No woman who values her health or good looks should hesitate to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for diseases of the womanly organs. It cures irregularity, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It fights down pain, brightens the complexion, and rounds out the sunken curves of the body.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery," writes Mrs. Shelby Smith, of Sunnyside, Tyrrell Co., Texas. "I was troubled with bearing down pains in my back and female weakness. I wrote to Dr. Pierce for advice. I tried his 'Favorite Prescription' and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I feel like a new person, and I thank Dr. Pierce for my health. Life is useless to any one without health. I have told a great many of my friends about the great medicines I took."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, 1008 pages, sent free on receipt of stamps to pay cost of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for paper covered book, or 31 cents for cloth. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Healthy Mothers

Few mothers are healthy, because their duties are so exacting. The anxiety of pregnancy, the shock of childbirth, and the care of young children, are severe trials on any woman. But with Wine of Cardui within her grasp, every mother—every woman in the land—can pass the dark days of womanly health and bless her loved ones. Do you want robust health with all its privileges and pleasures? Wine of Cardui will give it to you.

WINE OF CARDUI

strengthens the female organs and invigorates weakened functions. For every female ill or weakness it is the best medicine made. Ask your druggist for $1.00 bottle Wine of Cardui, and take no substitute under any circumstances.

Mrs. Edwin Cross, Conover, Mich., "When I commenced using Wine of Cardui I was hardly able to walk across the room. Two weeks after I walked half a mile and picked strawberries. When my other child was born I suffered with labor pains 24 hours, and had to raise him on a bottle because I had no milk. After using the Wine during pregnancy with this time, I gave birth last month to a baby girl, and was in labor only two hours, with but little pain, and I have plenty of milk. For this great improvement in my health I thank God and Wine of Cardui."

He Hooked Off His Leg.

Caught in a bear trap on the banks of the Athabasca, near Milford, Mo., John McLeod, a trapper, was obliged to take out his jackknife and cut off his leg. The trap was too heavy to move and was springs to such a way that he could not reach over and release it. He was far from any human being, and the only way out of it seemed to be to cut off the leg.

That was done easily, because the leg upon which he operated was of wood. But when he stumped back to camp it made him mad to hear the jeers of the French-Canadian cook of the lumber crew.

"Why you no take off you whole wood leg, ah? You get out um strap and put on wood leg 'tall, ah?"

Such a way out of his difficulty had not occurred to McLeod before.

Then and Now.

In these days of cheap literature, when the masterpieces of English writers can be had for 6d., it is interesting to note that just 1,000 years ago the Countess of Anjou gave 200 sheep, one load of wheat, one load of rye and one load of millet for a volume of sermons written by a German monk.—London Standard.

Quits.

He—You women have such a ridiculous habit of screaming "Oh!" on every occasion.

She—And you men have such a ridiculous habit of saying "I" on every occasion.—Indianapolis Press.

Other Allurements.

Mr. Goodman—Why don't you take the pledge, my good fellow?

Jaggsby—Because there are too many other things to take.—Denver Times.

The worst mosquito infested neighborhood in the world is the coast of Borneo. The streams of that region are at certain seasons unnavigable because of the clouds of mosquitoes.

The horseshoe in China as well as in other countries is looked upon as a harbinger of good luck. For that reason Chinese mandarins when buried have horseshoe graves.

The Lesson He Wanted.

In his autobiography, "Up From Slavery," Booker T. Washington tells an amusing anecdote of an old colored man who during the days of slavery wanted to learn how to play on the guitar. In his desire to take guitar lessons he applied to one of his young masters to teach him. But the young man, not having much faith in the ability of the slave to master the guitar at his age, sought to discourage him by telling him: "Uncle Jake, I will give you guitar lessons. But, Jake, I will have to charge you $3 for the first lesson, $2 for the second lesson and $1 for the third lesson. But I will charge you only 25 cents for the last lesson."

Uncle Jake answered: "All right, boss, I hires you on dem terms. But, boss, I wants yer to be sure an' give me dat last lesson first."

Still In Throwing Of Mail Bags.

The busiest clerk in any crew or car is the one who is detailed to receive and throw off the sacks and pouches. To hit a heavy mail sack and throw it from a car moving at 30 or 40 miles an hour is a matter of good target shooting. "Looks easy enough," commented one of the veteran clerks at the other end of the car, "and it does seem as if a man should be able to hit a station platform without much difficulty, but you see that station platform is moving in about one second. Then, the suction of a train running at this speed is something terrific, and until the knack of throwing a pouch is learned a man is liable to feed the wheels with a few letters."—Saturday Evening Post.

Origin of the Word Sterling.

The origin of the word "sterling" is very curious. Among the early ministers of coin in northern Europe were the Easterlings of eastern Germany. They were so skilful in their calling that numbers of them were invited to England to manufacture the metal money of the kingdom. The strangers were known as "easterlings." After a time the word became "sterling," and in this abbreviated form it has come to imply what is genuine in money, plate or character.

LEXINGTON INVESTMENT CO.

LEANON BRANCH, A. ADDAMS, Manager.

OUR GROWTH.

Paid Certificate Holders to September, 1898	$ 631 00
" May, 1900	72,000 00

The Lexington Investment Company does business on a life insurance basis by reversing the plan.

Life Insurance Companies pay large sums to the few of their members who die.

We pay a smaller sum to all of our members as their coupons die.

The Lexington Investment guarantees to pay to its members three dollars for every one received from them.

The Lexington Investment is also an improvement over all other plans of investment Cos.

1. Because it pays more money.

2. Because after the third payment the member is eligible to receive a cash income which increases his payments in the meantime, decreasing not the certificate in the least.

3. Because it redeems its coupons in a regular consecutive order and has a so called numerical drawings or lottery features attached to it by which possible to favor the few at the expense of the many.

4. Because after three years, if the certificate is not killed, the holder may obtain a "paid up" certificate and cease paying on same, his remaining coupons being redeemed thereafter in their regular order.

Our strength, like life insurance, lies in our membership; but unlike Life Insure our field of business is unlimited, as everybody is eligible to membership. No medical examination required
